Columbus to Valdosta

Come Join Us

From the banks of the Chattahoochee to the heart of South Georgia, we're hitting the road in search of the people, places, and stories that make this region unique.

This is small-town America at its finest, surrounded by some of the country's most productive farmland, where one beloved legume reigns supreme. And where a former president remains a favorite son in the hometown he put on the map.

Come along for the ride as we make our way to Valdosta, where Friday nights belong to high school football, before heading back to the city.
